University Continuing Education: Learning for Impact in a Changing World

01 – 04 June 2021 – Utrecht University, The Netherlands

Wieger Bakker Dean Lifelong Learning Utrecht University Floor Hofhuis Project Leader Lifelong Learning Utrecht University

Continuing Education

Theme and Streams

Learning for impact in a changing world highlights the role of CE at universities in enabling professionals to perform in a dynamic societal context to the best of their abilities throughout their careers.

Stream 1: Impact of Societal change on UCE

Stream 2: The future of education and modern workplace learning

Stream 3: UCE as Professional Practice within universities

Purpose and Participants

Emphasise and visualise that University Continuing Education is about learning as well as about learners.

Connecting research on learning with practitioners in learning.

Connecting the academic domain with professions and other stakeholders.

Aligning university facilities with University Continuing Education needs.

Equally address researchers, practitioners, administrators as well as professionals and their organizations.

Contributions

We aim at three categories of contributions and types of sessions:

1. Research papers including conceptual or empirical work on the topic of the conference;
2. Testing ground laboratories: spaces where concrete innovative UCE/ULLL practices, formats and didactics will be experienced by the participants;
3. Short papers on Organisational and administrative innovations (UCE-leadership, embedding UCE, professionalization of UCE teachers et cetera).

Additional: meetings between scientists, practitioners, professional organisations administrators and policy makers.
